The penultimate event of the 2007 Jamaica National Sprint championship is title sponsored this year by Castrol lubricants, through their distributor Tropical Battery Ltd, and will feature a “pick your favorite Castrol girl” competition, as a number of beautiful young ladies have been a part of Castrol’s motorsport promotion throughout the year across the island.

JMMC GRAVEL RALLY #2

The second Stages rally of the gravel season on the JMMC calendar will be held on Sunday October 21. Revisiting the cane fields of the Bernard Lodge Estate using venues more popularly know as Caymanas North and South the event should be an interesting one. These stages were last used in 2002 and should be a good shakedown for cars preparing for the premiere event on the JMMC calendar Rally Jamaica 2007.

The event should see the running of 10 competitive stages and is set to start and finish at SHELL Service Station in Naggo Head Portmore. Start time for the event is 9 a.m.

Going for the charge should be Jeffrey Panton in his home made Evolution 9, the ever improving Marc Evans. Gary Gregg should be there as well in his Ford Focus and word is still out on whether the TEAM from the WEST will be coming to challenge the teams from the EAST to stake their claim on the Caymanas cane fields. Word is that Fudgie has been known to whisk thru these canefields with barely so much as a passing glance on his brake pedals.

The event is being organized by Marcia Dawes- Lamey and Rosemarie Jadusingh of the JMMC. The event is being made possible through the kind cooperation and assistance of the Bernard Lodge Estate, SHELL < Geddes Refrigeration Ltd, Xsomo International Ltd, among others.

We're not sure if we'll be seeing this team in action....??

The colors have changed but this car will be running as Closing Marshall

Stain-ability: Will you be remembered? Leave your own mark!!

No it is not a grammatical error. 'Stain-ability' means making an indelible mark on whatever you do on this Earth before you leave it.

Ask yourself these questions : If I leave tomorrow, will anyone remember what I have done? Will they acknowledge my contribution to the development of motorsports in Jamaica?

You don't have to be a Marcus Garvey or a Bob Marley, these are people with incredible 'stain-ability' who will always be remembered for their outstanding achievements. Make your mark!!

Your indelible mark must be made - just like an ink stain on a white shirt that cannot be removed no matter how hard you try.

'Stain-bility' is making your mark, creating your personal record. This is, indeed, a challenge in any area especially with a motorsports fraternity that is very demanding and itself most toughest critic. There are always people who are going to try to blot you out. It is your job not to allow them to try to erase you. The success of your motorsports career is not just about what you have achieved for yourself but what you can achieve for others and how long you can keep going in the process - 'stain-ability!' Many people run out of steam very early. They burn out quickly because they are either juggling too many balls at once - trying to be too diverse too quickly - or they just don't have a clue about what they are really trying to achieve in the first place. They often make rash decisions which seem okay at the time, but may end up running around in circles.

Working hard is just not enough - you have to be strategic in your journey. Do not move from one idea to another but plot your course carefully. By doing so, each step will bring you closer to where you want and need to be.

Characteristics

During your journey, take the following characteristics with you:

Sheer determination: A passion for what you are doing. This is the fire that will keep your heart burning when all else is failing around you.

Integrity: of utmost important.

A good work ethic: The ability to take criticism from those more seasoned than you.

Creativity: In addition, know when to be still, know when to fight for what you believe in, be prepared to invest in yourself and retrain if necessary.

Sometimes, we sabotage our own plans by not being prepared to listen to others. When we do this we set up ourselves to have our "stain" quickly washed out.

In the music industry, when a group or a singer is successful and then disappears into obscurity, they call it a 'one-hit wonder' . Then you have legends like Third World, Bob Marley, Dennis Brown, Peter Tosh, Jimmy Cliff and Ken Booth who all have 'sus-tain-ability'.

So, as you go about each day, decide what projects for the development of motorsports you can you tackle and put your personal stamp on.

When you move on, will the motorsports fraternity remember your contribution? Be sure to create your own unique 'stain'.

-adapted from an article in the Sunday Gleaner dated September 9, 2007 and redone to fit motorsports fraternity.
